JavaScript is a loosely-typed client side scripting language that executes in the user's web browser. A web page without JavaScript is unimaginable today. JavaScript is commonly used for creating web pages. It allows us to add dynamic behavior to the webpage and add special effects to the webpage. On websites, it is mainly used for validation purposes.

Server-side JavaScript gained popularity because it allowed for the scalability needed in cloud computing and the back-end. Browsers have engines that can process JavaScript quickly, and this has encouraged more server-side usage. Node. JS, or Node, is one of the most popular versions of server-side JavaScript.
